The object is to save the expense of mileage of paymasters and their clerks who travel from post to post to pay the men. Hereafter the paymasters will remain at the headquarters and perhaps in some instances pay headquarters in the different departments will be abandoned and consolidated at the department headquarters.

Westfield, Mass. Aug. 21.—Allegations of "gress and confirmed habits of intoxication by the use of chloral," are the grounds of a divorce suit brought by W. F. Gill, whose wife, Edith O. Gill, is a sister of Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt. He has left his home here.

The facts came out in the district court room, where Superintendent Akers of the Gill farm at West Granville, was charged with drunkenness by Mrs. Gill. She said that Akers came back from a trip to Westfield very much intoxicated. She had long suspected that for some time he had been tampering with her mail in the interest of certain parties, and discharged him.

STORY OF A MISSING BABY. Carious Experience of a Parisian Lady of

The recent experience of a Parisian lady of position, writes Miranda in the Lady's Pictorial, may serve as a useful warning to some of my readers who reside abroad. The lady in question returned from a ball one night much earlier than she had given her servants reason to expect, and to her consternation found three members of her household missing, the nurse, the housemaid and—the baby! Greatly terrified, she rushed to the concierge to make inquiries, and after some pre-varication the man informed her that the two servants, fancying their mistress would not return for some hours, had gone to a notorious dancing place, taking the baby with them, and there the lady would be certain to find all three "quite safe and sound." As the master of the house was absent, the distracted mother went to seek a male relative, and together they visited the locality indicated, where they found the two women drinking with friends. but no baby. In reply to frantic inquiries after her child, the housemald impudently told her mistress-whose smartest new gown she had b for the evening, by the waymadam need not excite herself the infant was in good hands." At first she refused to say where; but by dink of threats it was dragged from her that the child had been taken to a low inn close at hand. Here the enraged parent found her precious offspring asleep in a filthy bed with eight other children, who were all being taken charge of at one franc fifty centimes a head while their nurses enjoyed themselves. Needless to say, the two wretches were dismissed on the spot.

In countries which export, the total production is 1.551,701,000 bushels. The crop of 1896 is 223,000,000 hushels less than that of 1894.

est tones from the bench. Then came the reply in a weak voice from the gullery: "Please, your honor, it's a lady."
The judge started for a moment, and

"A woman, is it? Then why does she dress like that?"

There was no explanation, and the business of the court went on.

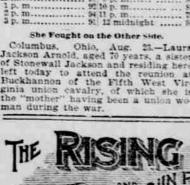

Another judge decided, to the consternation of English housewives, that
